DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME I.

SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 10, 1905.

NUMBER 24.

FATALLY BURNED.

Mrs. John Lester, of Cardwell, in This County, Dies From Burns Sustained While Preparing Her Midday Meal.

The Cardwell correspondent of The Sun, under date of May 5, says that one of the saddest and most shocking deaths that has occurred in that community for a long time was that of Mrs. John Lester. On Wednesday last the unfortunate woman was cooking dinner and opened the stove door to replenish the fire, when her clothing ignited and she ran into the yard. Here her grandsons held her while water was brought and the flames extinguished, but not until nearly all her clothing had been consumed. After terrible suffering death came to her relief, and she expired at 2 o'clock a. m. Thursday. Mrs. Lester leaves a husband, two sons, three daughters and a host of friends to grieve for her melancholy demise. Interment took place Friday in Mount Freedom cemetery.

No Room For Him.

Roscoe Baker, the fifteen-year-old son of Bill Baker, of Mackville, was given a sentence of two years in the State Reform School before Judge Litsay Monday morning. The boy was charged with being unruly, and an affidavit was made by his father to that effect. Upon his promising the court that he would behave himself and be a good boy his sentence was held in abeyance; but he is still under judgment of the court, and may be sent at any time he fails to keep his promise. It is understood the Reform School is so crowded just now that he could not be admitted.

Teachers' Examination.

The first examination for white teachers will be held Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20. The examination for colored teachers will be held one week later. The examinations will continue to be held on the third Friday and Saturday in June, July and August. All persons contemplating teaching should observe that no examination will be held at any other time than the above dates.

Umbrellas Repaired.

I am prepared to re-cover umbrellas at from 35c up. Work done on short notice. Don't throw a good frame away. Get my prices on this work, and have it re-covered. Geo. Taylor.

Indicted in Nelson.

(Kentucky Standard.)
The Commonwealth of Kentucky has filed fifty suits in the Nelson Circuit Court against the Standard Oil Company, seeking to recover $1,000, $20 in each case of said company, for selling oil without license to various merchants in Nelson county for a period of about six months before November, 1904, at which time licenses were taken out.

CARDWELL.

Mrs. Mary E. Perkins, of Battle, spent several days last week at E. T. Perkins'.
Miss Emma Graham, of Sharpville, was a visitor at H. J. Brown's last week.
Mr. H. J. Brown bought a mare from John Reynolds for $90.
Mrs. Nelson. Royalty is dangerously sick, and her death is expected at any hour.
Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Perkins were in Harrodsburg Saturday.

Stock Sales.

The following sales of stock were made the past week: E. T. Perkins to T. Bradshaw, a seven-year-old mare, $76.25; to J. T. Neils, a black mare, $39; to L. Brown to H. J. Brown, sow and nine shoats, $25; H. J. Brown to E. G. Holliday, seven hogs, averaging 140 pounds, at 45c, and ten sheep at 34c; E. G. Holliday to R. A. Wilham, veal calf, weight 200 pounds, $8.50; W. L. Graham to R. A. Wilham, veal calf, $5; E. T. Perkins to W. L. Graham, two hogs, $12; T. L. Atkinson to E. T. Perkins, fat cow, at 3c, and cow and calf, $30.

Standard Oil Wins.

It will be remembered that at the last session of the grand jury of Washington county a large number of indictments were returned against the Standard Oil Company, and there has been a great deal of speculation as to what was going to be the final outcome. One of the indictments returned by the Marion county grand jury was tried at Lebanon and a conviction was secured. There were 482 others to be tried in that county, but as fast as they were called a plea of former conviction was entered by the Standard Oil Company, which was sustained by Judge Thurman. As the indictment is for a failure to procure a State license, there can be but one conviction, hence that plea will be good as to all the indictments returned in this county. It does not amount to so much after all.

Rev. W. F. Gordon's Lecture.

Those who failed to hear Rev. W. F. Gordon lecture on "A Sail on the Sea of Matrimony," etc., delivered at the Methodist church here Friday night, clearly missed something truly good. The expression that the lecture was both entertaining and instructive is warranted by the compliment paid the reverend gentleman in the undivided, rapt attention given by the audience to the speaker throughout his discourse, which contained much wholesome advice and many rock-bottom truths, aside from the many humorous incidents and ludicrous scenes coincident with "the old, old story." Mr. Gordon carried his audience from the dawn of creation through the intervening ages to the present time, quite thoroughly covering the most prolific field which the subject of matrimony offers. He dwelt at length upon the importance of husbands and wives remaining always lovers, urging them to beware of the many reefs, breakers and other obstacles with which the sometimes turbulent "sea" is filled, lest their bark be dashed to pieces and they fail to reach the haven of perfect happiness, perpetual bliss. It is not a common custom of The Sun to notice the matter of a lecture at length, but the subject of this article appears so pertinent that it deserves more than mere mention.

Slipped On a Banana Peel.

Mr. Watt O'Bryan fell on the street Friday and fractured his left arm between the wrist and elbow. His fall was due to his stepping upon a banana peel which had been thrown upon the pavement by some thoughtless person. Hundreds of persons are annually hurt in this manner, and it seems to us that there ought to be a law against the placing or throwing of these dangerous little "slippers" upon pavements. The fracture, while very painful, is not so severe as at first thought, and Mr. O'Bryan is now doing nicely.

Death in Lexington.

Mrs. R. M. Redd, of Lexington, sister of Mr. Ed. M. Russell, of this place, died at St. Joseph's Hospital, in Lexington, last Friday morning at 1 o'clock, of stomach trouble. The deceased was known here, having been born and reared in Nelson county. She leaves a husband, three daughters and one son. Mrs. Redd was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was a devout Christian. Interment occurred at Lexington last Saturday morning.

Will Marry This Evening.

Mr. Jas. R. Claybrooke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Claybrooke, residing near Texas, and Miss Beulah Litsay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Litsay, living in the Pleasant Grove neighborhood, will be married at the home of the bride by Rev. Williams at 8 o'clock. The editor and a large circle of friends and acquaintances of the happy couple, who are deservedly popular, extend heartiest congratulations, hoping they may enjoy a long and unshadowed life.

Dinner.

The ladies of the Christian church at Mackville will serve a court day dinner at Springfield Monday, May 22, in Ursh Martin's store room, opposite Wharton & Tapp's livery stable, for benefit of the new Christian church at Mackville, Ky.

JUDGE CHARLES E. MAGOON, GOVERNOR OF THE PANAMA CANAL ZONE.

Judge Magoon, who succeeds Major General George W. Davis as governor of the Panama canal zone, is one of the "big three" of the canal project, for he, Chairman Theodore P. Shonts and Chief Engineer John F. Wallace will be the men mainly responsible to the secretary of war for the building of the canal and the government of the canal strip. Prior to the recent reorganization Judge Magoon was general counsel of the Panama canal commission.

Work In the Mountains.

Editor Sun:

It does us good to read your paper from week to week and get some news in this mountain country, for our work keeps us busy, and then things will happen somehow or other among this adventurous people. Now and then a fellow gets shot; now and then a log rolls over one and crushes a few of his bones. We can't say that this is an enterprising people, but they are not inert. Just now everything and everybody is astir.

The trees are hanging out their summer clothes; odors from fresh flowers are shifting about on the breezes; the birds are busy nesting and giving evening and morning concerts, and the way the frogs are singing these nights could hardly be believed by any one who has not spent a night spent a night fishing on the banks of Beech Fork or Chaplin river. Will Fred Booker, Bob Anthony McElroy or Morrison O'Nan could sleep to such music.

The little brown patches of plowed ground on the hillside, high up in the coves or deep down in the narrow valleys are all alive with groups of men, women and children "pitching the crops." Corn is worth a dollar a bushel here, and very scarce at that. There is not much live stock in the valley, and so hard a winter it is mostly very thin. "Good morning, Uncle Jerry, how is it all?" "Not very well, Luther, not very well. The red is dead. Don't know what could have been the matter with her. She couldn't have starved to death, for I fed her bright corn blades Sunday morning."

Our different fields of operation lie up and down the middle fork of Kentucky river, in Breathitt and Perry counties. Here at the college where Squabble creek runs into the Middle Fork, it is only eight miles west to the South Fork and eight miles east to the North Fork. The water-sheds between these streams run zig-zag. None of the streams running into the Middle Fork can be very long. The whole surface of the country is chopped up into short mountain ridges, running to every point of the compass. The hills are from 800 to 1,200 feet high—that is, up the slope. These ridges are covered with magnificent forests, and some of the finest chestnuts we have seen, grow on the comb of the ridges. There are strata of coal in all these hills, not infrequently one cropping out in the branch at the bottom, and two or three others between that and the top. The homes of the people are situated up and down the branches. No one lives on the mountains. Our work among this people is of a very interesting kind. First we entice the children and through them the older ones. I wish some of your readers could have been with me at the Crockettville church last Sunday. The singing would have made a member of the Bethlehem, Pleasant Grove or Springfield congregations ashamed of themselves. We, up here, know very little about the great war in the far east, or about a probable up-rising in Poland or the Balkans—we have little scrimmages of our own nearer home in which we are more deeply interested. In the Gospel of Christ lies the only hope of relief from these feuds and fractures. The work of righteousness is peace, and the effect of righteousness is quietness and assurance forever. The law-breaking element of society is confined to a smaller per cent. of the people here than in Louisville. Cases of pitiable poverty confront us as missionaries every now and then. Our work in the churches, Sunday Schools, new mission fields and in the log college has been blessed beyond our highest hopes.

Miss Mattie Begley and Ethel Rogers spent Sunday with Mrs. Sallie Kimberlin near Texas.

Messrs. J. B. Leet and Sim Adams, of Louisville, visited the family of S. C. Begley last week.

Mrs. W. F. Logsdon spent last week with Mrs. A. L. Litsay near Pleasant Grove.

J. H. Mayes and wife spent Friday with the family of C. W. Oder.

Will Adams and wife spent Sunday at the home of James Jant.

Dick Lanham spent Sunday with Thad Anderson.

Bro. Williams filled his regular appointment here Thursday night.

Will Barker bought a horse from Jack Rayburn.

Mrs. Dora Sewall and son, Jimmie, are with the family of Sam Paddock this week.

Matt Hilson and wife spent Sunday at the Lee Riley home.

Miss Grace Waters, of Springfield visited the Misses Adams last week.

Snake Story No. 1.

A few days ago while Mr. Young was at work in his back yard, he heard a noise in the front part, and on hastening to ascertain the cause of the disturbance, discovered his wife and a large cow-sucker snake in a hand-to-hand conflict, which resulted fatally, so far as the snake was concerned. Mrs. Young says the murder was justifiable, as his snakeship, besides robbing the calves of their "morning's morning" had also developed a liking for eggs.

Explosion at Saw Mill.

On last Wednesday afternoon at about 3 o'clock, after half of our issue had gone through the press, the boiler to the engine of Hill Bros' saw mill, which was being operated by Mrs. Sue Knott's farm, near town, exploded, instantly killing George Matherly, his head being crushed from his body. A report of the accident was immediately telephoned to The Sun, and the story of the horror was printed in a part of our issue. Mr. Hill, one of the proprietors of the mill, who was severely hurt, is now much improved; in fact, he has about recovered.

We are informed that the explosion was due to a defective crown sheet. It is said that this was worn out some time ago, but had been rendered serviceable—temporarily, at least—by the use of a piece of copper, which melted from the excessive heat to which it was exposed, creating an opening through which the water flowed into the fire-box, causing the explosion.

Mr. Matherly, the unfortunate man, was unmarried. His home was at Wilshire, where he was well known and liked by all. Funeral services were held at that place the following day. Hundreds of friends extend condolence to the bereaved relatives.

A May Day Celebration.

A very pretty and impressive ceremony took place at St. Dominic's church here Sunday in honor of the Holy Virgin Mary. The service was one of love and respect, in which all the little children took a prominent part, bearing flowers and marching before the image of the Blessed Virgin, at the conclusion of which little Lucile New crowned the Holy Virgin with a beautiful wreath of flowers. Father Hennessy then delivered a short address, especially to the children, in which he told them of the purport of their celebrating the day in that manner, concluding with a few remarks touching their duties as children, that they may grow into good and useful Christian men and women. Then followed vespers and benediction. The weather being fine, quite a large crowd was present and the church was well filled. Misses Myrtle Price, Jennie McCabe and Emily Russell should receive a great deal of praise for the manner in which they managed the children during the exercises.

Seriously Hurt.

Felix Hamilton, a grocery drummer of Lebanon and quite well known in this county, was badly injured Monday morning in a runaway. He had left Bardston early in the morning in company with a boy to canvass the smaller towns in Nelson county. He had just finished his work at Cox's creek, and was in the buggy preparing to leave when the horse became frightened and started to run away. The boy not being in the buggy at the time, it seems that Mr. Hamilton became frightened, and in attempting to get out of the buggy was violently thrown out, striking on the back of his head and neck. Those near him at the time hurried to his assistance, only to find him in an unconscious condition and bleeding profusely. He was carried to the home of Oscar Manning and a physician was summoned, who pronounced him seriously injured and in a very critical condition. Other medical aid was summoned from Bardston, who worked diligently for his recovery, but he remained unconscious all during Monday and Monday night, not regaining consciousness until Tuesday morning. His physicians pronounce him much better and now have hopes of a complete recovery. However, it was a close call, and his many friends will be pleased to hear it when he is out of danger.

Notice To Breeders.

Having bred and booked 60 mares to my Jack, I have decided to close his books until June 10. After then he will be open to serve Jennets. Come and see my standard bred trotting stallion Floater, 9315. He is bred in the purple, and is a tip top individual. J. E. SHELLEY.

Death of Mrs. Durham.

The wife of Commonwealth's Attorney Durham died at her home at Greensburg last Wednesday night of consumption. She had been suffering from the disease for quite a while and her death came as no surprise to friends and relatives. Mr. Durham's Washington county friends extend condolence. Besides the husband the deceased is survived by one child.

DROPPED DEAD

Mr. John McAuliffe Suddenly Expired of Heart Disease Monday Morning.—One of Springfield's Oldest Citizens.

Monday morning at about 7 o'clock Mr. John McAuliffe, a well-known citizen of this place, died very suddenly of heart disease. He had been in feeble health for quite a while and his death was no surprise to those who knew of his physical condition.

The deceased was born in Talbert, Ireland, in 1840 and came to America in 1860 and was married to Bridget Nash, who had also migrated from Ireland, she having died in Springfield in 1896. Mr. McAuliffe located in Springfield at the close of the Civil War, he having served upon the side of the Union in the capacity of teamster, and had lived here until his death on last Monday.

Mr. McAuliffe's first wife left him considerable property, or at least, a life estate, most of which he owned at the time of his death. The deceased was married a second time to Nancy Shea, who still survives him, but who for some time has resided in Chicago. At one time Mr. McAuliffe was a large property owner, but he met with financial reverses and at his death only owned that which was left him by his first wife. He was at one time engaged in the shoe-making business here and was an expert workman.

The deceased was a member of the Catholic church, from which church funeral services were conducted this morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. McAuliffe was liked by all who knew him, possessing a gentle nature and a charitable disposition. He had no enemies; he had many friends. He was honest, to a pretty degree, and those who knew him best saw in him many pretty characteristics.

Thirty-Day Notice.

The citizens of Washington county are hereby notified to remove all fencing materials, parts of stone walls fallen into the ditches, (or any other property obstructing the highways) within the next thirty days. Anything remaining after that time will be considered of no value to the owner and will be appropriated for road purposes. G. T. CLEMENTS.

Road Supervisor Wash. Co.

A Freak Pig.

Mr. P. R. Lyddan, of near Mooresville, has a freak pig on exhibition at his farm, which is attracting considerable attention. The body of the animal, it is said, is perfectly shaped, but the head is "freakish" in the extreme. It is described as having, in addition to the "customary" two eyes—one on each side—a third eye, perfectly formed, but situated in the top of the head, and it also has two perfect noses and mouths.

MACKVILLE.

Rev. W. P. Walden, of the Christian church, and Rev. G. V. Todd, of the Methodist church, preached here Sunday.
Rev. Overstreet, of the Presbyterian church, preached here Sunday afternoon.
A good many of our citizens attended church at Deep Creek Sunday.
Rev. W. T. Gordon delivered his lecture here Thursday night according to promise.
Mrs. Barnett and daughter, Miss Jappa, of Anderson county, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Barnett Sunday.
Miss Addie Warren, of Berryville, is the guest of Mrs. John Hayden.
Mr. and Mrs. James Cregar attended conference at Junction City last week.
Miss Annie Hayden spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Cal. Shewmaker and family.
Miss Ollie Shewmaker spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Clayd.
Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson, of Texas, were in Mackville Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leham and little daughter, Elizabeth, visited Mrs. Ben. Powell Sunday.
Mrs. Will Bottom is quite sick at this writing.
Robert Bottom was at Woodlawn Sunday.

STRAIGHT TALK

WRITTEN FOR THE SUN BY

MISS ALERT WATCHFULNESS

To My Brethren.

Since I have never written anything to the men I am going to discuss a very important subject with them, for I know they fully understand that to become a good talker you must first learn to listen; and I have observed that lots of you like to talk. So, on paper, I believe you will give me room. Do gentlemen ever swear—in the presence of ladies? I have heard of men who do it, whose coats, hats, shoes, gloves and linen are just as unexceptionable as I wish their manners were; but do gentlemen ever do it? I want an answer to that! Now, please don't accuse me of being a Chesterfield. I do not admire that old sinner, who spent all his life polishing his head, and who, with one foot in the grave, taunted his own soul with modesty—which, thank goodness, he could not at once assume as the Bostonians did tea in their own harbor. And his hollow-hearted, surface politeness, that so many patterned after, and do it yet, I hate that, too. I was once on a belated train, with very few passengers to begin with, and they finally reduced to only one other, and he a nice, lovable-looking young man, whom it was a pleasure to look it, but suddenly his pleasant expression was changed to one of intense disgust for I heard, from the far end of the car, a small oath. His luxuriant beard, which but a moment before was quite captivating, suddenly had the appearance of an old shoe brush, his eyes very dull, his mouth—heaven forbid any man's should ever come in contact with it. He probably may have been able to talk like a seraph, but to me I should have been as dead as an oyster. I just can't help it, but when I hear an oath it gives me a severe mental as well as physical nausea. Now, good sirs, handsome sirs, well shod, well coated, well pantalooned—otherwise very able—others, who please never let another oath escape your lips? It is such a pity you won't be content to tempt me to swear—who do so many gallant, good things. That is why I want to improve you all in this particular error, though I know at this moment you are saying words which your minister wouldn't approve. How cheerfully you have been known to give up your seat to an old, unattractive woman or some heart-heavy mother with a crying babe in her arms; or, when returning, tired and footsore, from the store, laden with bundles, you stop and buy a bouquet for the good little woman at home, and probably from an ugly saleslady, too! Now, these are all sweet, noble deeds, that beautify your rugged manhood as the climbing climber does the sturdy oak, around which it twines its fragrant blossoms. Such deeds as these make any good woman's heart throb with a strange pleasure, though she may see but for a passing moment the man who performs them, or know no more of his name or history than that he does her has given the pleasure. And why? "Are women perfect?" you ask. Not by any means. They often take more room than is necessary, street car and talk any quantity of nonsense in your hearing—even get a little meek and line over baseball and the races. They seem sometimes to think you should feel honored when you get up in a crowded church and give them your seat, while you stand on one leg during the service. They ought to be ashamed of themselves for doing these un ladylike, uncivil things. But, good sirs, I pray you, don't resent me who am a civil, who do thank you for all courtesies, for every allowing an oath to escape your lips again. Swallow it as you would a capsule!

Along In Life.

What in the world is more discouraging than the feeling that in your struggle through life, in trials and disappointments, there is no one to sympathize with or care for you? Now, listen to me: No man can go very far with limited strength, courage and cheer, if he goes alone. You will be made better and happier by some good woman's notice, help and praise. But, when you have asked her to meander through life's pathway with you, be careful that in after years she does not meander down some lane, pulling splinters off the rail fence to kindle the breakfast fire. I heard a lady in your town say the other day that was why she had never married. Hearts, I think, often debarred from these influences, invariably wither, harden, or break. Oftentimes we find people who, from pride, contrariness, or sensitiveness, affect to be altogether independent of the notice or regard of anyone, but I believe that I am safe in making the assertion that never yet was there a human heart that did not at some time yearn for the tender sympathy of other hearts; and I believe there is nobility in that feeling. I believe that it is an offering of God. I do not believe that there is a being in this universe of ours above the brutes (and who knows that they are exceptions) who can be positively happy unless he or she be sympathized with and loved.

Don't Fret.

In the first place it is unamiable. A man or woman who continually frets is like a stone in the shoe. It is a hateful thing, with or without provocation. Remember, "It is better to dwell in the corner of a house than with a bawling woman and in a wide house. It is perfectly useless, and I wouldn't do it. Fretting sets no broken bones; it won't stop a leak, replenishes no spilt milk, mends no smashed pictures, cures no corns, will not restore spoiled hay to its original purity and sweetness, neither has it ever been known to change an east wind. Really, it affects no one but the fretter. Children and servants soon cease to respect the authority or obey the commands of a complaining, worried, exacting parent or master. They soon learn the "fretting dog's bite," that fretters don't strike, and therefore conduct themselves accordingly.

How to Ward Off Old Age.

The most successful way of warding off the approach of old age is to maintain a vigorous digestion. This can be done by eating only food suited to your age and occupation, and when any disorder of the stomach appears take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to correct it. If you have a weak stomach, or are troubled with indigestion, you will find these Tablets to be just what you need. For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

Jack Wilson's Romance.

(Kentucky Standard.)

Miss Mabel Clarke will be married in the early spring to Mr. John S. Wilson, editor of the Kentucky Standard at Bardonia, Ky. Miss Clarke has achieved much success as a reader, and has been in demand at many social functions.

The above announcement appeared in the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune of Sunday, April 23. As stated, Miss Clarke and Mr. Wilson will be married at an early date.

Mr. Wilson's acquaintance with Miss Clarke dates back twelve years ago (she is now twenty-six years old) when he met her at a relative's home in a Central Kentucky town. She was a bright little girl, and the impression she made upon him was never forgotten.

Last winter, in looking over a Cincinnati paper, he read where she had figured in a dramatic and educational entertainment, and thus learned her whereabouts. He marked his name at the head of the editorial column of The Standard, and mailed her a copy of the paper. In due time a letter of acknowledgment came from the young lady, a correspondence followed and the engagement resulted.

Miss Clarke was for several years a pupil of the Cressy School of Elocution and Dramatic Art at Cincinnati, and is a trained elocutionist. She possesses considerable dramatic ability and has figured in a number of notable entertainments. She is a member of a splendid family and has the entire into some of the best social circles of the Queen City. The young lady is coming to Bardonia, an entire stranger, but we are sure by her ladylike deportment she will make many friends.

Mr. Wilson was born in Bardonia and has been a resident of same for forty-three years. Therefore, it is unnecessary to speak of him.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. C. B. Wainwright, of Lemon City, Fla., has written the manufacturers that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drunk; that when taken in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

BROOKVILLE.

Quite a large crowd from this place attended meeting at Tatham Springs Saturday and Sunday.

Davis Noel was in Springfield Monday on business.

Miss Hattie Settle and Sammie Crook, of Hillsboro, spent Friday night with Miss Artie Sutton.

Rev. Sims preached at Glens Creek Sunday. A large crowd attended and dinner was served on the ground.

We are reading "The Wings of the Morning," and think it a very interesting story.

Miss Hester Noel visited at Tatham Springs Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Lula Sharp and brother, Jerome, were in Springfield Tuesday.

Luther Cooksey and wife were at Springfield Friday.

Miss Irene Sutton is visiting her sister at Hillsboro this week.

Mrs. Jerome Wells visited at Birchwood Monday.

Miss Jesse Noel was the pleasant guest of Miss Lula Pinkston Sunday.

Residence Burned.

(Anderson News.)

The handsome residence of Mrs. Rosema Leathers, near Leathers store, this county, was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, with all its contents, causing a loss of about $9,000, with only $3,000 insurance. The fire came from the kitchen stove, and when discovered had made such headway that it was impossible to save anything of value from the house. The building was one of the most attractive in that section, and its destruction removed one of the landmarks from the county.

Base Ball.

Springfield was defeated in a hard fought battle by St. Marys, Wednesday, May 3. The game was interesting up to the first part of the ninth inning, when the home boys took a trip to the clouds and when they came down the visitors were two scores to the good the official result being 9 to 7, with Springfield furnishing the small end.

NOTES.

Col. Noel umpired a great game; he is the man we need behind the pitcher. The Waco boy put up a great game at first, but—oh, well, what's the use. Campbell landed on the sphere for a homer with men on bases.

Colvin's "spit-ball" was very effective.

Simms, Cain and Robertson pulled off some snappy ones in the field.

Loud Thunder Tong caught a great game.

Wyoff, the Mackville boy, proved a star at short and a heavy hitter.

Marks, the pigeon-toed third baseman covered the bag well.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Very Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says George L. Chubb, a merchant, of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure your cough in the best time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the house, ready for use, as it has been known to cure much less time when promptly treated. For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

Aged Settler Passes Away.

Paris, Ky., May 4.—James Hedges, 88, one of the old settlers of Bourbon county, is dead at his home near Plum. Mr. Hedges died in the same house in which he was born, nearly a century ago. For 50 years he was the leading stock trader of the county.

New Kentucky Postmasters.

Washington, May 4.—Kentucky postmasters have been appointed as follows: Thack Bon, Whitley county, L. P. Martin, Glady, Menefee county, Joseph B. Ledford, Public, Paoli county, U. G. Whitaker, Sandy Ford, Leslie county, Abijah B. Gross.

Died in Iowa.

Versailles, Ky., May 4.—Mrs. Mary R. Kinckel, 57, for many years a resident of Versailles and one of the best known women in Central Kentucky, is dead at Keokuk, Ia., where she went a few years ago to make her home with her niece.

A Strange Bird.

Newport, Ky., May 4.—A large and strange-looking bird, with a beak that was curved like the blade of a grass scythe, flew into police headquarters. After allowing the involuntary guest to rest Night Sergt. Flynn allowed it to depart.

A Claims Decision.

Washington, May 4.—By a decision of the United States court of claims the officers and soldiers of the First Kentucky regiment will receive about $12,000, while about $5,000 will go to the second regiment, Spanish war veterans.

Midget Twins.

Frankfort, Ky., May 4.—The wife of John Herrell, a farmer of the Bald Knob neighborhood of this county, gave birth to twins whose combined weight is but six pounds. Both children are well formed and healthy.

Attorney Hallam Dead.

Covington, Ky., May 4.—Even as a child sinks into deep and peaceful slumber, so Theodore Hallam, orator, attorney-at-law, wit and politician, sank into his eternal sleep in this city at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

The City of Mexico has contracted sewerage works and pipe laying to cost $500,000.

Harrodsburg Bank Sued.

Harrodsburg, Ky., May 4.—Auditor's Agent Harrison to-day filed suit in the Circuit Court here against the First National and the Mercantile National banks of this city for back taxes amounting to between $20,000 and $25,000 from each bank.

The suits are similar to those filed against other banks throughout the State. The petition charges that the banks each have personal property worth $100,000, and that only a part of it has been assessed for taxation. The petition further says that the banks have assessed their capital stock at par value, while its market value is $100 per share.

SHOCKING CASES MURDER APPEALED

Man Was Shot To Death After Being Tortured.

Georgetown, Ky., May 8.--Tortured with fire, shot to death, robbed of all money and valuables and then thrown from a train is believed to have been the fate of a man whose case was granted a stay of execution. Pursall on the night of January 19 entered three residences here, pilfered the groceries, attempted to assault women found unprotected and shot Charles Wagner almost to death. He was arrested the following day and but for the vigilance of the officers in getting him out of the city might have been lynched.

OVER A NOTED WOMAN BREEDER

In a Difficulty Paul Campbell Killed William Coffman.

Madisonville, Ky., May 8.--In a difficulty between Paul Campbell and Wm. Coffman, of the northern part of the county, Coffman was shot and instantly killed. The trouble is said to have been brought about by a woman. They were neighbors, boys and were highly respected in the community in which they lived. Campbell made his escape.

TWO MEN BURNED

Two Heroes Attempted to Prevent a Forest Fire.

Owensville, Ky., May 8.--While attempting to prevent a forest fire from escaping gas in Wolfe county oil fields Newton Williams and Wm. McKeezie were fatally burned. The two men were looking over the field near Compton, when they discovered the gas had ignited. They began taking dry leaves away to prevent the fire from catching fire and attempted to remove the gas plant, which became disjunct throwing burning gas all over them. Their clothing was burned from their bodies, and the death was fearfully burned.

HARGIS TRIAL

The Jury Failed To Reach An Agreement and Were Discharged.

Lexington, Ky., May 8.--James Hargis, 48, county judge of Breathitt county, who has been on trial for four weeks for complicity in the murder of James Cockrell, is still a prisoner in the Fayette county jail, although the jury in the case failed to reach a verdict after deliberating for 15 hours. The jury announced to Judge Parker that they had failed to reach an agreement, and asked to be excused from further deliberations. Judge Parker questioned each juror separately, and after each had said that it would be impossible to reach a verdict Judge Parker discharged them.

The largest island in the world is New Guinea, 305,000 square miles. Great Britain is 32,826 square miles.

TWO NEGROES SENTENCED TO DEATH HAD THEIR CASES APPEALED

Lexington, Ky., May 8.--James Piesall and John Taylor, both colored, were to have been hanged here, but their cases having been taken to the state court, appeals each was granted a stay of execution. Pursall on the night of January 19 entered three residences here, pilfered the groceries, attempted to assault women found unprotected and shot Charles Wagner almost to death. He was arrested the following day and but for the vigilance of the officers in getting him out of the city might have been lynched.

JOSEPH WARREN SCOTT DRY PASSES AWAY AT LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Ky., May 8.--Joseph Warren Scott Dry, noted trotting horse breeder of this county, died at St. Joseph hospital from an attack of diabetes. He came to this city from New York in 1869 and took charge of the breeding establishment of his brother, Anthony Dry, the former Wall Street broker, and during his career as a breeder he bred such horses as Philology, 2:11 1/4; Belle Girl, 2:22; and Call Cammie L., 2:21, the last named two making their records to the high wheel.

He was also a brother to Richard Dry, for many years confidential agent in California to the late John W. Mackay and who fills the same position now with Clarence Mackay. He was 75 years old.

GOT HIS MONEY

His Sweetheart Embraced Him Warmly at the Depot.

Lexington, Ky., May 8.--Jas. Durham has sworn out a warrant here charging Leslie Shepherd with grand larceny. Durham says he was calling on the girl, and she had gone to the depot to bid him good-bye on his way to Stoneks, Va., to be gone for some months. At the depot, he says, his sweetheart embraced him. He thought it only a mark of real affection, until a few minutes later he missed his trunk. He says he had $99 in bills in his vest pocket, with which to pay for transportation of a number of men to the Virginia town, where they were going to work in the mines. He had his money left to pay for the transportation of the men and the trip was postponed.

Big Land Deal (Lebanon Enterprise.)

The Page tract of land lying near Cave Valley, Adair county, containing six hundred acres, about one-half of which is fine timber land, was sold yesterday at public auction to the High McLean Lumber Co. for $37,000. The Lebanon Co. did not have the right to the property to the amount of $37,000. It is considered one of the finest tracts of land in this part of the State, and has been sought by lumber men for many years.

POWERS CASE

Attorney Asks That It Be Taken To United States Court.

Georgetown, Ky., May 4.--A surprise was sprung in the Catfish Powers case here when the master came up of the date for his trial. The surprise was in the nature of a petition signed by Frank S. Black, ex-governor of New York, and Richard Yates, ex-governor of Illinois, as his attorneys, asking the removal of his case to the United States court on the ground that he can not secure in Kentucky the rights and equal protection of the laws that are his as a citizen of the United States under the constitution and laws.

APPOINTED

Commissioners for the Confederate Home at Pewee Valley.

Pewee, Ky., May 5.--Gov. Becham has appointed the following commissioners for the confederate home at Pewee Valley: For terms of six years each, Lelan Hathaway, of Westchester; L. H. Blanton, of Danville; Ben D. Terry, of Cadiz; W. N. Bumpus, of Owensboro; and A. L. Harned, of Boston. All of these have served one term as commissioner except Bumpus, who succeeds J. H. Bozarth, of Owensboro.

RAIDED

Seven Operators Captured By Five County Policemen.

Louisville, Ky., May 5.--A poolroom just outside the city limits, said to be controlled by Henry W. Ehnhoft, was raided by five county policemen and seven operators were molested. None of the operators were molested. Another poolroom, 20 yards distant, said to be controlled by Ed Alvey, was not entered. After the officers departed the poolroom resumed operations. No gambling on the pines is now going on within the city limits.

Rat In Mail Box.

(Harrodsburg Herald.)

Some one placed a rat in J. T. Prather's mail box, in Washington county, the other day. When Mr. Prather opened the box to get his mail the rat jumped out in his face and gave him a shock from which it took him some time to recover.

Phillip Lyons, while ploughing Saturday, unearthed a steel spearhead ten inches in length. It was the first time the field had ever been ploughed.

Circuit Court began Monday. There are forty old and fifty-three new cases. Obe Demaree will be tried for killing Ella Maux. He was given a life sentence, but got a new trial. The thirty-three indictments against the Standard Oil Company will probably be heard.

One day last week Jimmie Baldwin, while fishing in Dix river, caught a turtle, which he brought home for soup, and in dressing it he found that it had swallowed a snake about sixteen inches long. It is the first time, say those in a position to know, that a turtle was found to eat snakes. Master Baldwin did not have his soup.

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Mo. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble. My mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. Price, 50c and $1. Guaranteed at C. J. Hayden's drug store. Trial bottle free.

Swiped The Judge's Coat.

(Lebanon Enterprise.)

As an instructor of grand jurors there is no question about Judge L. H. Thurman being a warmager. Violators of the law he is very little less than a terror, and the majority of the evil-doers fear him as much as they would a well developed case of amnesia. There is one, however, hereabouts who it would seem cares very little for the Judge's rigid enforcement of the law, for last week he very politely--or rather impolitely--took Mr. Thurman's coat from the hook in the courthouse and without even giving it a trial to see if it fit as though it were made to measure, walked away with it. It is no question about Judge L. H. Thurman in delivering his instructions to the next grand jury will have something to say about the man who, with malice aforethought, appropriate to his own use, the clothing of another.

When Andrew Carnegie recently declared, "It is better for my niece to marry an honest coachman than a worthless duke," he spoke the sentiments of about 79,000,000 of the 80,000,000 of Americans. A rich girl would better marry "The Raggedy Man," dress him up in a "jimmie" and go on a visit with him twice a year to see his kin, away over there beyond the hog path through the mountains, than to marry one of these worthless fellows whose only stock in store are a few worthless trinkets upon an embroidered coat.

The criminal nature of a child is seen early in life, and that, too, without a very close observation. The robber of a bird's nest at the age of eight not infrequently becomes the blower of a safe at the age of eighteen. And the lad of twelve who sneaks up behind a sleeping tomcat and strikes it with a stick, is often the same individual who, in after years, ascends the scaffold--a cowardly murderer--and goes out into eternity with a soul crimsoned with the blood of a fellow man.

The man who leaves the farm with the expectation of finding "something better" in the city is usually disappointed. If you have a good farm that "something better" is not to be found in the city.

Two for conviction, ten for acquittal--that's the way they jury stood in the Hargis trial at Lexington. The mills of justice grind slowly and the mob loath for a turn at the crank.

The city council of Harrodsburg has passed an ordinance prohibiting spitting on the pavements. Commendable, indeed! We trust Harrodsburg will "get clean."

McINTIRE.

The Parents' Duty

Is to, make the little fellows "look well;" they like to be stylish as well as grown-up people. Can't you remember how proud you used to be when mother diked you out in your new gingham or your new "round-about?" Certainly you can; all of us remember those days.

A nice line of Linens, Dimities, Lawns, and Marcellies for dresses. Buster Brown Collars, Buster Brown Shoes and Oxfords in Black, Tan and White. Grecian Barefoot Sandals, pretty line of hose. White Duck Caps, Tam-O-Shanters. Boys Waists, Etc.

PRATHER'S CREEK.

Mr. J. H. Mays was in Springfield last Wednesday on business.

Messrs. Will and Zin Kimberlin were speculating in Springfield last Friday.

Mr. George T. Mays visited his aunt and uncle John and Adaline Bottom, near Stewart, last week.

Misses Ethel Rogers and Mattie Begery, of Fenwick, and Mr. Robert Mays, of this place, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kimberlin last Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Mattie Begery paid us a flying visit last Monday.

Mr. J. D. Yankay and family and Mr. J. P. Vest and family, of Deep Creek, were the guests of Mr. G. H. Christerson last Sunday.

Messrs. Mat and Prentice Mays were in Springfield Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Noel visited friends at Mackville last Monday.

The young ladies and gentlemen who went fishing last week had no luck and won't get married this year.

J. H. Mays last week lost a valuable mare that left a mule. If every neighborhood is as short on mules as this one there will not be enough to satisfy a buyer.

Mr. John Russell sold his wool crop when the market was settled, and it brought him nearly $275, while he retained about thirty fleeces. Wouldn't you call him a successful wool-grower?

If a heavy locust bloom indicates large crops we will surely have plenty this year, as the bloom is the largest I have ever seen.

All the young folks in this vicinity attended what is called "Show Day" at old Deep Creek church Sunday, and it is reported that eight hundred people were present.

I would be much pleased to see a letter from each one of The Sun's correspondents in next week's issue. Let's "get together" on this and try it.

FOUND--A bunch of keys, on last Friday, near Steve McGill's, on the Springfield and Mackville pike. Two large brass keys and five small keys. Call for them at The Sun office and pay for this notice.

The secret of life, health, happiness is the right kind of a tonic!

VIMALT IS THE PERFECT HEALTH TONIC!

BECAUSE it is made from selected Bavarian hops and the best malt barley, and it is, therefore, naturally nutritious and innately invigorating.

Malt extracts are conceded to be the best tonics, the real boon to the weak and afflicted, because they are purely vegetable. They combine the strengthening, vitalizing properties of the malted barley with the soothing, sedative influences of the hops.

The Double Store.

GRUNDY, CLAYBROOKE &amp; MCINTIRE.

THERE are a good many reasons why women always think of "Queen Quality" when they think of shoes.

It is the name of the shoe that insures correct fashion-of the shoe that fits-of the shoe of quality at a moderate price-of the FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN.

A graceful carriage results from wearing "Queen Quality" shoes when properly fitted-there is a "Queen Quality" shoe that will accurately fit every normal foot.

Mr. J. J. McCabe is building an addition to his residence on East Main street, which, when completed, will greatly enhance the value and beauty.

Mr. T. L. Spalding has begun the erection of a nice house on his lot recently purchased of Mrs. M. A. Noe, situated on Virginia avenue. This is the first of a number of residences to be built on this new street.

Miss Josie McIntire, residing near town, and who, on account of ill health, was adjudged insane and ordered to the asylum, was restored to her former status before Judge Litsay Saturday morning. She did not remain at the asylum long, coming home in July, 1901, since which time she has been constantly growing better, and has now entirely recovered.

The likeness of Master Thornton Waters, little son of Postmaster Waters, appeared in Saturday evening's Times. Thornton was astride his velocipede, and looked as game as an Indian Chief. The Times is now twenty-one years old and has printed thousands of pictures of children, but we'll wager a printing press that it has never printed one of a brighter or manlier little fellow than Thornton.

Miss May Bell Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gibbs, Williamsburg, won the gold medal in the elocution contest at Harrodsburg May 5. There were fourteen young ladies contesting, and the judges had great difficulty in deciding. Miss Clark Blanton, a cousin of Miss Gibbs, won first honor, and she will represent the school at the Tenth Annual Blue Grass Tournament, which meets in Lexington May 25-27.

BURLEY GROWERS

Will Meet In Cincinnati On May 10, When Another Effort Will Be Made to Organize and Plans Will Be Discussed.

Cincinnati, May 8.—A meeting of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association has been arranged to take place at the Grand Hotel on May 10. It is expected that about fifty or sixty members of the association, including President W. B. Hawkins, of Lexington, Ky., and Archibald Stuart, of Cincinnati, will attend. Preliminary steps for controlling the marketing of this year's burley, now in the ground, will be undertaken. The several efforts that were made the association last winter to finance the crop will be talked over.

It is the intention of the growers to have all the details concluded before the tobacco is ready to be marketed. The fact that the growers needed money caused the abandonment of the scheme this spring, but the promoters believe that if the financial men will do their part before fall, when the tobacco has matured, the plans will meet with success.

It is known that Archibald Stuart has been in communication with men who are ready to back the deal for some time, and he may make a report to the growers at the coming meeting. It is recalled that Stuart, during the last winter, went to New York to secure financial assistance, and was blocked. Finally he secured aid, but it was too late, as members of the association, released from their contracts, sent the tobacco streaming to the markets at Cincinnati and Louisville because they needed money.

Why Suffer From Rheumatism?

Why suffer from Rheumatism when an application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett, of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes: "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism all over, from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by C. J. Haydon, druggist.

Divorce at Eighty.

(Harrisburg Democrat.)

During this week proof has been taken in a very unusual divorce suit. Mary Hatchell sued William Hatchell for divorce and alimony. She is seventy-six years of age, and the defendant is even eighty years old. They were married forty-six years ago, the plaintiff being then a widow with several children. The old couple live in the Dixville neighborhood, and own a small tract of land and some little personal property. The aged plaintiff charges her more aged husband with abuse and cruel treatment, settled aversion and failure to provide, despite the fact that he is unable to arise from a chair without assistance. The defendant denies the charges made, asserts that the wife abandoned him while he was sick and greatly in need of her love, aid and comfort, and invites her to return to his home and fireside. Both wife and husband are feeble and infirm, and, unless prompt submission of the case is had, the final arbiter of all flesh may chide the chancellor out of his job.

..Tatham Springs..

A pretty view of the hotel and grounds.

There are hundreds of people in Washington county alone, who suffer agonies from cases of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Rheumatism, Cystitis, Gastric and Intestinal Catarrhs, Jaundice, and every form of Dyspepsia. Tatham Spring water cures these diseases. Write for catalogue of testimonials.

BOARD: Per day, $2, per week, $10, per month, $35.

THE HOTEL at Tatham Springs, Washington County, Ky., is situated on Carey Island, in Chaplin River, at the intersection of Glenn's Creek. The hills surrounding the valley are three hundred ft. high, from the top of which the prospect is varied and sublime. Chaplin river, which is stocked with fine game fish, flows within one hundred feet of the Hotel, at which place it makes a grand circuit of three miles returning within ninety feet, leaving a picturesque ridge, through which a tunnel has been cut, furnishing water for a mill. The Spring is really an artesian well spouting from about one hundred feet below the surface, pouring out its healing waters in sufficient quantities to supply the world.

The water is a mild alkaline diuretic, with tonic and alterative properties of the most remarkable character. The analysis will suggest its curative properties, but the many wonderful cures of stomach, kidney and liver diseases by the use of this water, convinces us that nature in her subtle laboratory deep in the earth, has given to it properties which the chemist cannot account for.

Mrs. S. E. Wornall, Manager Tatham Springs Hotel,
Tatham Springs, Ky.

Jesse James.

[The following verses, together with the paragraph above them, were given to The Sun by Mr. Wm. Waters with a request that we publish them. He has had them in his possession for quite a while and they go to prove that notwithstanding the crimes committed by the James boys, many people, at the time Jesse was shot by the Ford brothers, sympathized with the desperadoes.—Ed.]

[The following pathetic poem has been sent to the Post-Dispatch for publication. Of course we disapprove of the sentiment, but we print the production as a curiosity. It demonstrates that in having James killed in a cowardly and treacherous manner, Gen. Crittenden aroused the sentimentality of a large class of people, and made a romantic hero out of a very commonplace desperado.—Ed. P.-D.]

God pity the dear "little woman,"
The devoted, heroic wife.

Strengthen and comfort her aching heart
Thro' the weary journey of life.

And pity the brave old mother,
The woman of iron will,
Help her to bear it bravely,
For the pulse of her boy is still.

Alas, the brave heart is still forever!
It beats not for friend or foe—
Draw the merciful veil of charity
Over its deeds here below.

Can you honor Lieutenant Little—
"Little" indeed, was he?
To shoot like a dog a comrade
And then from his captain flee?

I'd rather be Jesse James,
In the peace of the grave away,
Than either the cringing Little,
Or the cowardly Ford, in-lay.

If the Fords have a mother living,
I pity her from my heart;
For the flush of shame must mantle
At the cowardly deed, in-lay.

But her sons should play such a part,
That enough of the Fords and Little,
They're just about on a par.
I'd rather have Jesse's chance.

At the seat of the judgment bar,
The Lord, it seems, was merciful

To Jesse James, they say,
For in the arms of his faithful wife,
His spirit passed away.

The pity the wife and mother,
There is no man without a flaw,
And many a heart-felt tear will fall
On the grave of the brave outlaw.

Attempt to Wreck Train.

(Kentucky Standard.)
Near Desatville, Sunday, a dastardly attempt was made to wreck the train which passes that place after dark. A Mr. Shepherd, who lives near Lotus, was returning to his home, and while walking along on the track he noticed that some one had placed heavy rocks between the guard rails; and, to make the wreck doubly sure, had, in another place near, driven nine large spikes, either one of which would have been sure to wreck the train. Mr. Shepherd removed the danger a few minutes before the train arrived. Two strange men were seen in the vicinity during the day.

THE PIONEER SQUARE MESH FARM FENCE

FARM FENCE.

It is presenting the Pioneer Square Field and Hog Fence to the public, we do so with the assurance that it is as near mechanically perfect as it is possible to construct a fence. Great care has been taken to embody in these fences all the essential qualities necessary to make it efficient under every condition in which fence is used. Only the very highest grade of galvanized wire is used in its construction, all the line wires are made from high carbon steel, coiled or corrugated so that expansion and contraction in hot or cold weather is amply provided for. The same spacing of the line wires is observed in the different styles of these fences; the three lower wires are spaced three inches apart in all of our different heights and styles, while the spacing of these lower wires would, of course, cheapen the fence, but it would be done at the expense of strength and the effectiveness of the fence, rendering it practically useless as a hog fence; we can reassure the spacing and consequently decrease the weight of our fence and sell it for less money, but we do not desire to deceive our customers, and wish to feel that the words Pioneer Farm Fence and Stock Proof Fence are synonymous.

CHAPTER XI.

THE sailor knew so accurately the position of his reliable sentinel that he could follow each phase of the lullaby couch on the other side of the island. The first outbreak of desultory firing died away amidst a chorus of protest from every feathered inhabitant of the isle. So Jenks assumed that the Dyaks had gathered again on the beach after ridding the seacrowns with bullets or slaying them with their heavy razor edged swords.

A hasty sound was probably heard, and, notwithstanding their fear of the silent company in the hollow, an advance was ultimately made along the beach. Within a few yards they encountered the inevitable coral that abode of the dead. The next commotion arose on the ridge near the North cape.

"At this rate of progress," said Jenks to the girl, "will not reach our house until daylight."

"I almost wish they were here," was the quiet reply. "I find this waiting and listening to be trying to the nerves."

They were lying on a number of ragged garments hastily spread on the ledge and peering intently into the moonlight area of Prospect park. The great rock itself was shrouded in somber shadows. Even if they stood up none could see them for the darkness so dense was the darkness enveloping them.

"He turned slightly and took her hand. It was cool and moist. It no more trembled than his own."

"The Dyaks are far more scared than you," he murmured. "They are, 'Crucel and courageous as they are, they dare not face a spook.'"

"Then what a pity it is we cannot conjure up a ghost for their benefit. All the spirits I have ever read about were ridiculous. Why cannot one be useful occasionally?"

The question set him thinking. Unknown to the girl the materials for a dramatic apparition were hidden amidst the bushes near the well. He cudgeled his brains to remember the details of effects of juvenile days, but these needed light, blue flames, mirrors, phosphorus.

The absurdity of hoping to devise any such accessories while perched on a ledge in a remote island, a larger reef of the thousands in the China sea, tickled him.

"What is it?" asked Iris.

He repeated his list of missing state properties. They had nothing to do but sit, and people in the you cannot master of existence usually discuss trivial things.

"I don't know anything about phosphorus," said the girl, "but you can obtain queer results from sulphur, and there is an old box of Norwegian matches resting at this moment on the shelf in my room. Don't you remember? They were in your pocket, and you were going to throw them away. Why, what are you doing?"

For Jenks had cast the rope ladder loose and was evidently about to descend.

"Hush no fear," he said. "I will not be away five minutes."

"If you are going down I must come with you. I will not be left here alone."

"Please do not stop me," he whispered earnestly. "You must not come. I will take no risk whatever. If you remain here you can warn me instantly. With both of us on the ground we will incur real danger. I want you to keep a sharp lookout toward Turtle beach in case the Dyaks come that way. Those who are crossing the island will not reach for a long time."

She yielded, though unwillingly. She was treacherous with anxiety on his account.

He vanished without another word. She next saw him in the moonlight near the well. He was rustling among the shrubs, and he returned to the rock with something white in his arms, which he seemingly deposited at the mouth of the cave. He turned back to the well and carried another similar burden. Then he ran toward the house. The doorway was not visible from the ledge, and she saw only a few horrible moments until a low hiss beneath caught her ear. She could tell by the creek of the rope ladder that he was ascending. At last he reached the side, and she murmured, with a gasping sob:

"Don't go away again. I cannot stand it."

He thought it best to soothe her agitation by arousing interest. Still hailing in the ladder with one hand, he held out the other and showed her the wispes were writhing like glowworms' ghosts.

"You are responsible," he said. "You gave me an excellent idea, and I was obliged to carry it out."

"What have you done?"

"Arranged a fearsome bogey in the cave."

"But how?"

"It was not exactly a pleasant operation, but the only laws of necessity are those which nature has framed. She understood that he did not wish her to question him further. Perhaps curiosity, now that he was safe, might have vanquished her terror and led her another demand for enlightenment, but at that instant the sound of an angry voice and the crunching of coral away to the left drove all else from her mind.

"They are coming by way of the beach, after all," whispered Jenks.

He was mistaken in a sense. Another outbreak of intermittent firing among the trees on the north side of the ridge showed that some of at least of the Dyaks were advancing by their former route. The appearance of the chief on the flat belt of shingle, with his right arm slung across his breast, accompanied by not more than half a dozen followers, showed that a few hardy spirits had dared to pass the valley of death, with all its nameless terrors.

Mail Order Houses.

(Springfield (O.) Sun.)

If P. T. Barnum had not gone into the shoe business he would have started a mail order house. Any man who believed, and acted on the belief, that the American people liked to be humbugged, belongs at the head of a mail order house. That is the religion of such humbugs, and they live on the edge of the world.

Miss Rose Snider was in town shopping Saturday.

Messrs. Gilbert Donohue and Frank O'Neal were at Maud Sunday.

Miss Maggie Gootley and Ed. Kelly attended church at St. Rose Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. Otis Settle, Clyde Gootley, James Moran and Harry Derringer attended church at St. Hope Sunday.

Miss Thomas A. Grundy last week had the misfortune to lose two of his fingers, which were bitten off by a mud snake.

Clyde Gootley bought a three-year-old mare from Ed. Donnelly for $110.

The mail order house has no place in modern business. It might have served a purpose when stores were few and when local merchants cared only the necessities of life, but they did not flourish then as they do now. At this time, when the local merchants have access to the best markets of the world, when their trade is sufficiently large to enable them to deal with houses in foreign cities, but the next mail is flooded with catalogues, and the express companies are loaded down with bundles just as if nothing had been printed about it. Women who will not believe their own eyes about a piece of cloth, will believe a catalogue and a dab of red ink. A home merchant, who is responsible for every statement that he makes, may talk himself hoarse and fail to convince a patron, and a circular letter from a mail order house will be headed as scripture.

It is no good to appeal to people's patriotism when it comes to a question of traffic, but common sense ought to do that the merchant in New York City Chicago can sell any cheaper, nor as cheap, at the merchant right here in Springfield. This old toymonger about buying in large quantities to enable the merchants in large cities to do so, under their brothers in smaller cities, been exploded in a thousand times. The difference between the cost of each cloth point in a car load or a ship load is so small that a postal card would more than cover it. There is not a family in the country that does not own enough goods in ten years for the difference in cost to the Chicago merchant and the Springfield merchant to amount to enough to cover the postage expended in ordering the goods.

To some goods, however, the manufacturer goods and ask how much cheaper the Chicago firm can buy than the firm here at home and you will find out that profits are figured so closely that there is not a difference enough to buy a postal card.

You may not care anything about whether your home city succeeds, you may not have any love for your home merchant, you may be one of those who have no pride for home institutions, but you ought to have sense enough to know that there is but one satisfactory way to buy goods and that is to go to the store and look at the goods and get what you want. If the goods do not give satisfaction you can go back to the merchant and tell him about it. If you have not experience or brains enough to tell good goods from bad, you are paying tuition in a high school, and you ought to order from the mail order house.

TATHAM SPRING.

Mr. Andrew Bunch is seriously ill at the present time.

Miss Myrtle Yeager, of Kirkland, entertained quite a number of her friends Sunday.

Mr. Murray Grider and family visited his sister at Bethel Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Carey and little daughter, Margery, visited Mrs. Noel, of Williamsburg, Sunday.

Messrs. Graville Brown, Tim Snider and Ivan Phillips, of Antioch, attended Sunday school here Sunday.

Messrs. Hugh Gordon and Samuel Wells were in Polin Sunday.

Mr. P. J. Johnson and family visited his mother at Johnsonville Sunday.

Messrs. Mattie Gordon and Ethel Scott were the guests of Miss Anna White Sunday.

Messrs. Chris. Jenkins and family, John Jenkins and family and Jesse Cole and family visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jenkins, of Kirkland, Sunday.

Miss Clara Dean was the pleasant guest of Miss Nannie Kelling Sunday.

Prof. Ivan Keeling attended church at Antioch Sunday.

Rev. Mullins preached a very interesting sermon at Fairview Sunday night.

Mr. John Hunt visited at Green's Chapel Sunday.

Quite a number of the young people of this place attended church at Fairview Sunday night.

VALLEY HILL.

Mrs. J. W. Tucker spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Palmer Gootley.

Miss Louise Settle, of Booker, was the guest of Mrs. George Tucker last week.

Jeff. Gootley spent Saturday night with relatives near Maud.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moran visited at the home of T. A. Tatum Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Spaulding, of Springfield, were in our midst Thursday afternoon.

Messrs. Otis Settle, Clyde Gootley, James Moran and Harry Derringer attended church at St. Hope Sunday.

Messrs. Gilbert Donohue and Frank O'Neal were at Maud Sunday.

Miss Maggie Gootley and Ed. Kelly attended church at St. Rose Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Adkins, pastor of the New Hope Baptist church, and Mr. Oliver Croake, of Croake's Station, were here Monday.

Mr. Thomas A. Grundy last week had the misfortune to lose two of his fingers, which were bitten off by a mud snake.

Clyde Gootley bought a three-year-old mare from Ed. Donnelly for $110.

How to Treat Glands.
This is the proper way to treat a gland. When you say a thy hole meet it without delay that it may not increase in size. Mould it on the inside of the glove with the cotton of the same color as the kid. Do not use silk. For it soon wears out. Never break off your cotton, but cut it, so as not to draw the seam hard and uneven. When sewing a slip in a finger seam insert a finger into the glove and draw the edges together so that they meet close, that is all. A ridge would not only be uncomfortable, but would look unsightly. When a glove is put on and silk is used, it is worse than useless to sew up the rent. It must be patched. The patch must be of kid of the same color.

How to Clean Velvet.
To clean velvet take pure turpentine and soft clean cloths and sponge a small spot with the turpentine, then wipe with one or more dry cloths. When the entire piece is cleaned, hang in the open air, if possible, for a hot room, and the odor will leave it.

How to Clean Painted Wood.
When the painted wood of the interior of the house are solid or spotted get a plate of very good whiting. It will cost only a few cents. Dip a piece of flannel into warm water, squeeze nearly dry and dip it into the whiting. Then rub the paint with the whiting and all the dirt and grease will disappear, and the paint will look like new, no matter how delicate.

How to Fold Vests.
Vests are apt to become narrow when a good deal worn, but if they are rolled up instead of in the usual way when taken off, they will be found quite straight and like new when next wanted.
